

2.3.1 - Student centric methods, such as experiential learning, participative learning and problem solving methodologies are used for enhancing learning experiences

Narayana Medical College firmly ensures that the learning is made student-centric by converging all its teaching plans, ICT mediated resources and teaching and learning for the overall benefit of the students. Experiential learning training consists of Peer-assisted learning, scientific projects and journal clubs. Entire curriculum has been designed for vertical and horizontal integrated teaching. In Participatory learning Students are encouraged to participate in group projects and various activities like Poster presentation, Group Discussions, Field Trips. Problem solving methodology sessions conducted at OPD and at bed sides. The students are made to think based on their theoretical and clinical knowledge to arrive at a probable solution. Students are rotated in clinical departments and are exposed to OPD, IPD, and OT, trauma care and diagnostic laboratories for Patient-centric and Evidence-Based Learning. To promote Learning in the Humanities, students are trained in communication skills, Professionalism, value-based education by incorporating topics of Ethics like Patient privacy, Confidentiality, Right to health in the foundation course. Students write small research projects and short term projects under expert guidance to various agencies across the globe for Project-based learning. Role Play is encouraged as a part of curriculum to promote active learning, critical thinking and communication skills
