The University-level West Zone Pre-Republic Day Parade Camp Selections for 2025

were conducted with great enthusiasm and patriotic spirit on 8th September 2025 at the Cricket Ground of Andhra Loyola College, Vijayawada. The prestigious event witnessed the participation of nearly 266 NSS student volunteers representing 55 colleges across Andhra Pradesh among which Narayana Medical College is one among 55 colleges with 3 NSS volunteers from NSS unit participate in the selections. The camp aimed at identifying and grooming young student volunteers who will get an opportunity to represent Andhra Pradesh at the State and National-level Republic Day Parade, a matter of immense pride and honour.

Prof. Ramji Koona, Hon'ble Vice-Chancellor of Krishna University, graced the occasion as the Chief Guest and formally inaugurated the program. In his inspiring address, he urged the youth to utilize such opportunities to showcase their talents, discipline, and leadership qualities, and motivated them to set higher goals by aspiring to take part in the National-level Republic Day Parade in New Delhi. He emphasized that participation in the parade is not only a recognition of individual excellence but also a representation of the collective pride of the University and the State.

The rigorous selection process tested the physical, cultural, and intellectual abilities of the volunteers through running races, disciplined march pasts, cultural performances, and personal interviews. Dr. Sri Sida Ramavath, Youth Officer, Ministry of Youth Affairs and Sports, attended as the Guest of Honour and explained the selection procedures in detail. He highlighted the role of NSS in shaping socially responsible citizens with leadership and service-oriented values. He congratulated all participants for their spirit of discipline and education and encouraged them to continue promoting NSS ideals in their institutions.

Adding significance to the event, Dr. M. Sudhakar, State NSS Officer of Andhra Pradesh, extended his greetings to all participants and lauded the tireless efforts of NSS Program Officers in guiding and preparing the volunteers for this camp. He reiterated that such programs strengthen national integration, discipline, and unity among students. Rev. Fr. Dr. A. Rex Angelo, SJ, Correspondent, and Rev. Fr. Dr. S. Melchoir, SJ, Principal of Andhra Loyola College, warmly welcomed the dignitaries and facilitated the smooth conduct of the program.

The camp was meticulously coordinated by Dr Hari Raju , NSS Coordinator Dr NTR University, Dr. M. Shravani, NSS Coordinator of Krishna University, in collaboration with Program Officers representing both general and medical colleges among which our NSS program officer Dr D M Karthik , Narayana Medical College also have been the part of co ordination .

The efforts of Andhra Loyola College in hosting the camp were highly appreciated, as the institution has been consistently extending its support to NSS activities that promote youth development, discipline, and nation-building.

From our Narayana Medical Institutions under the supervision of Dean Dr P Sreenivasulu Reddy Garu three NSS volunteers were sent for the selections
